PLAINFIELD MAN KILLS SELF WITH RAZOR

Five Are Injured in Collision on W. Laf.-Newcomerstown Rd.

Auto Strikes Wagon and Occupants Are Cut by Flying Glass—Boys on Way to Coshocton—New Auto is Demolished in Second Wreck Sunday, No One Injured

Robert Adams, Dilford Beiter and Charles Crater, all of Newcomerstown and Jesse Johnson and his sister, Mrs. Martin, who live on the Smith farm in Center Valley, west of Newcomerstown, were slightly injured Saturday night at 11 o'clock near Poland's store on the West Lafayette-Newcomerstown paved pike when a touring car driven by Adams crashed into the rear of a wagon drawn by a team of horses driven by Johnson.

Adams received a cut in his head and a gashed elbow; Beiter was cut by flying glass from the windshield; Crater received a deep cut in his chin by glass and his lower lip was slightly cut; Mrs. Martin was bruised about the head and side and Mr. Johnson was scratched.

The vehicles were coming in the same direction, toward West Lafayette. It was learned that Johnson had planned to drive down as far west at Loos' Corners and then turn off and return home. The nearest way to his home is to turn off at Angle's it is said but the dirt roads were in bad shape and he decided to go farther west before turning off.

The boys said that Johnson did not have a tail light on the rear of his wagon and that they crashed into the rear end without seeing the wagon. They also claim that lumber was projecting many feet from the back end of the wagon and when they ran into the wagon the lumber went thru the windshield and smashed it.

Both vehicles were almost demolished. It was said that Thomas Larkin who had returned from Coshocton in his automobile happened along shortly after the accident and took the injured boys into Newcomerstown where they received medical attention from Dr. E. V. Berry.

The boys were on their way to Coshocton.

A new Chevrolet touring car driven by Elvin Little, Newcomerstown, was demolished Sunday afternoon on the Newcomerstown pike near the Miller Addition, east of Newcomerstown when a big Stutz machine driven by a man from Sebring, O. struck it.

The Chevrolet was knocked off the road and struck a post, it was learned. No one was hurt. It was also said that Little, who had intended to turn off the road toward the brick plant had held out his hand as a signal that he was about to turn.

A Studebaker driver who was just back of the new car had slowed down when he saw the signal but somehow the Stutz driver turned out and rammed into the side of the new car.

The number of the Stutz was taken.

The Chevrolet had been driven only 45 miles, a Newcomerstown garage man said. It was purchased last Friday by Little.

WASHINGTON, April 21 — Liquor confiscated by government officers in enforcing the national prohibition act was delivered to the Ohio home of former Attorney General H. M. Daugherty in Washington, F. M. Boucher, a former department of justice agent testified today before the Wheeler-Brookhart committee. Boucher said he made the delivery himself.

"You delivered this liquor to Daugherty's house?" Senator Brookhart asked.

"I acted as guard, some other men carried it."

"How did you get this liquor?"

"It was kept in a safe in the office of the chief," said Boucher. "They always had a big supply there."

"For what purpose?"

"Principally, it seemed, to pass out to visitors."

"Did you ever see people take liquor out of the safe?"

"Yes frequently."

"What was the quality of the liquor?"

"The best."

"How much was it?"

"Four or six quarts, as I recall now."

"How was it delivered?"

"In an automobile, a department of justice car," said Boucher. "They always delivered the liquor in bureau cars."

PROBE OF ORIENT HOME CHARGES TO START THIS WEEK

COLUMBUS, April 21.—Attorney General Crabbe this week, probably, will begin investigation of charges that four inmates of the state institution for feeble minded at Orient, near here, who escaped, were brutally mistreated, it was stated today.

The charges are embodied in affidavits signed by two firemen employed at the Orient. Dr. F. L. Keiser, superintendent of the institution, declared the charges are false. Altho asserting that he has no objections to the proposed probe, State Welfare Director Harper stated that it is unnecessary because Dr. Keiser, who has been at the institution 17 years, "can handle any situation wisely without assistance from inexperienced persons."

The affidavits allege that, in capturing three inmates who ran away from the institution, attendants shot one through the hand, knocked another down, and blackjacked the third.

OHIO SERVICE CO. TO REMOVE RADIO WIRES FROM POLES

Following a report of the deaths of two New York men one day last week, resulting from a dangling radio aerial wire attached to an electric light pole, Jack Dolan, manager of the local office of the Ohio Service Company, has today issued instructions to the company lineman to remove any such aerials that present to him a loss of life and property damage.

It is believed that an aerial cannot legally be attached to an electric light, telephone or telegraph pole and in some cities ordinances have already been enacted prohibiting such a practice.

The aerial wires responsible for the two deaths in New York city were attached to a pole carrying a wire charged with 2,400 volts of power. The wires came into contact with the high tension wire and when the loose end of the aerial touched a barbed wire fence poles some undetermined way set afire. Two firemen, attempting to cut the wire, met death instantly.

Slashes Throat and Bleeds to Death at Holder Home Sunday

Ill Health and Worry Over Money Cause Joshua Mortine to End Life Here—Failed to Respond to Call to Dinner, Is Found Dead in Chair—Coroner Views Body

Despondency over ill health and worry over his money in recent real estate investments, led Joshua J. Mortine, aged 46, of near Plainfield, to end his life by cutting his throat with a safety razor in his room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Holder, Denman-av, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mortine bled to death after he had severed a branch of the jugular vein and a small artery in his neck.

The dead man was found sitting in his chair by a small son of Holder shortly after the latter had called Mortine to dinner. When Mortine was called he did not answer. The boy went to his room to see what was detaining him and there he found Mortine sitting back in his chair and a safety razor near his side.

Mortine had held some clothes, which lay on the floor, to his neck to catch the blood until he became unconscious and then supposedly dropped back to the chair. No noise was heard in Mortine's room after he had slashed his throat, Mrs. Holder said.

Later the body was removed to the N. J. Rehard undertaking parlors in West Lafayette where H. J. Lydick, Newcomerstown undertaker, assisted in preparing the body for burial. Coroner E. M. Wright pronounced death due to suicide after viewing the body in the Holder home.

Mortine had been staying at the Holder home since last Tuesday, Mrs. Holder said. Recently he had purchased the Holder home and Mr. Holder had purchased the Mortine property on south Seventh-st. He expected to remain at the Holder home until Mr. and Mrs. Holder had moved into their newly purchased house. It was said that Mortine also worried over money he invested in a south Seventh-st property some time ago, which was later sold to Mr. Holder.

Last Saturday night Mortine said that he couldn't sleep on account of heart trouble, Mrs. Holder said. He told Mrs. Holder that he couldn't get his breath at times Saturday night and that he had not been feeling well. He also said that his health was such recently that he believed he would not be able to do any more work on the farm or here in the city, Mrs. Holder told a reporter.

Mrs. Holder also said that Mortine had acted strangely ever since he had come to the Holder home to stay, and that he seemed to worry considerably.

Deputy Sheriff James Stuart, returning home from church services early Sunday morning, was attracted by the queer actions of Mortine, who was walking on the W. & L. E. railroad tracks and appeared to be looking for something he had lost. Mortine walked ahead of Deputy Stuart and turned in a driveway close to the Holder property. Instead of stopping at the Holder house he went on back

BONUS BILL READY FOR PASSAGE WITH LITTLE OPPOSITION

(By H. K. REYNOLDS)
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Not even a presidential veto stood today in the way of a bonus for veterans of the World war.

The new soldiers bonus bill, providing paid up insurance policies for about four million veterans, having already received the O K of the house, is scheduled for passage by the senate today or tomorrow by an overwhelming majority well over the necessary two-thirds required to override a presidential veto.

President Coolidge's attitude toward the bill remained in doubt today, altho the last official word from the white house was that he was opposed to a bonus in any form.

This announcement however, was made at a time when there was no talk of anything except a cash bonus, such as President Harding vetoed and unconfirmed reports have been current for several days, that Mr. Coolidge will approve the insurance plan, now supported by administration's leaders in congress.

There is a feeling, too, that the president's opposition has been weakened by the notice served upon him by his Lieutenants at the capital that they will be forced to vote against him, should he elect to exercise his right to veto. The Republican leaders in the senate declare that they have enough votes to nullify the veto and they are ready to use them.

policy of Japan and that of France are really aggressive but we see no greater friendliness on the part of the United States. It is scarcely possible there would be a severance of relations between the two people, each numbering over 100,000,000. Responsibility for such a severance would rest wholly with the United States.

"Naturally we are still willing to participate in any international agreement at real limitation of armies to diminish the danger of a new war.

"Regarding your fourth question my opinion of English bankers is very bad.

"Fifth, my statement at Baku that war involving Russia is generally possible must be understood in the sense of Russia's amiability and her readiness for economic co-operation, notwithstanding the aggressive and imperialistic 'grab all' policy of other countries, do not preclude the danger of war nor the absence of any such danger. But we do not need armed force.

"Sixth whether revision of the Versailles treaty will lead to the pacification of Europe depends upon persons and methods. Europe in her present state has little capacity for revival. The continent seems doomed to economic and military convulsions.

"Only a confederation of the United States of Europe can insure her economic revival with cultural that the ruling class at present is progress. But there is no evidence able to carry out such a program, only the working class, by assuming power, will unite Europe and save her civilization.

COMING
To Demonstrate Remarkable New
RUPTURE Invention

If you are ruptured and wear a truss, now is your opportunity to get a FREE TRIAL of the most scientifically constructed Rupture Support ever invented.

William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., originator of the Rice (Non - Surgical) Rupture Method, is sending his representative to the Park Hotel, Coshocton, Ohio, Monday, April 21, and to Twin City Hotel Uhrichsville, Uhrichsville, Thursday afternoon and evening, April 24, and Friday, April 25, from 9 to 12 a. m., only, to personally explain and demonstrate his wonderful New Rupture Invention entirely free to every man, woman and child who is ruptured.

It is absolutely guaranteed to hold any rupture, large or small, no matter where located and afford proper protection at all times.

It is positively the most comfortable for every day wear at all kinds of work and can be worn nights and at all other times with no discomfort.

It is guaranteed not to slip out of place under any circumstances and the pressure so easily adjusts itself to all positions and movements of the body that there is no cutting or chafing.

It has proven the only properly constructed Rupture Support ever supplied for ruptured women, can be worn with or without the corset and actually improves the abdominal outlines.

It is equally valuable for ruptured children as it allows for full normal growth and development without limiting youthful activities or allowing the slightest protrusion of the rupture.

Pads are made of soft, resilient material, light, durable and comfortable. Hug the flesh snugly yet do not irritate. They are designed and shaped to fit and give pressure at the right spot so the bowel cannot possibly escape.

Hundreds of thousands in use all over the civilized world, and thousands are throwing all trusses on the scrap heap after a brief use of this scientific Rupture Support.

SUPPORT FOR ABDOMEN WHERE THERE IS NO RUPTURE.

This wonderful Appliance is also used with great success as a Support following operations and for Ptosis (fallen stomach.) floating kidney, sagging of abdominal contents and any condition requiring corrective support for the abdomen. And for men and women who have no rupture but require a strong uplift support for large fleshy or pendulous abdomens a special design is supplied which distributes the pressure over the entire back and carries the weight in front however great, without cutting or discomfort.

THE FREE TRIAL

A SHARP TUNING CRYSTAL RECEIVER

Constructed with Good Workmanship and Care, Capable of Distance

By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer.

A great many people are under the impression that a crystal set can be thrown together with any kind of apparatus and will work satisfactorily. Also that good material and careful workmanship is only necessary with a tube receiver.

This, together with a general impression that a crystal receiving set can only bring in the local concerts, has deterred many from building radio receivers using a crystal detector. A great many fans report that they are hearing concerts regularly from distances of over 100 miles, with this type of set.

A great deal of this may be due to the energy from a reradiating receiving set nearby. The question of whether the crystal receiving set itself is capable of pulling in the distant stations unaided, is underconsiderable discussion.

I have heard broadcast music from a distance of 90 miles with the above receiving set in a district where there were no vacuum tube receivers within a distance of ten miles. Be that as it may, you will make no mistake in constructing this type of a receiver as there are many other things in its favor.

No Upkeep Cost

There are no batteries or tubes to replace with this receiver. The first cost is the last, with the exception of wearing out a telephone cord or the replacement of an aerial once in several years.

The cash investment is very low, there is no upkeep charges such as recharging a battery, and the parts are all standard and can be converted into a tube receiving set at any time without discarding anything but the crystal detector.

Sharp Tuning Necessary

The amount of energy that is obtained from a crystal receiving set can never be more, and is always less, than the amount that is received from the antenna. Unlike a vacuum tube set the crystal receiver can not maplify the signals as well as detecting them.

For this reason alone the set should be carefully constructed to eliminate any possible losses.

Why the impression that crude tuning apparatus can be used with a crystal receiver is hard to understand. The most efficient type of a tuner should be used to conserve the weak signals received. For the same reason the tuner should be capable of tuning sharply.

When a single slide tuning coil is used for the inductance of a tube receiving set you will find that it tunes very broadly. The same will be true of a crystal receiver only more so due to the fact that it is not possible to secure regeneration with a crystal.

Good Aerial and Ground Needed

The same holds true with the aerial and ground installation. Be sure that your aerial and ground are as good as if you were installing it for the best vacuum tube receiver. To make doubly sure install three or four ground connections on different sources of ground and connect them all together.

A single wire antenna from 100 to 200 feet in length including length of lead in will be satisfactory. Be sure that the wires are free from surrounding objects such as trees, buildings, etc., and that it is up in the air at least thirty feet.

Apparatus Required

A variocoupler, a variometer, switch lever, switch contacts, binding posts, phone jack and a crystal detector is all of the apparatus necessary to construct this receiver. The variometer and variocoupler type but obtain the best of parts the same as if you were constructing a vacuum tube receiver.

The apparatus is plainly shown in the picture diagram with all connections so that additional information as to how to construct the receiver should be unnecessary. Carefully solder all connections and use large wire in connecting up the various pieces of apparatus.

Do not touch the surface of the crystal with your hands. If you do you will deposit a film of oil on the surface that will greatly reduce the efficiency of the crystal as a detector.

Build this set, then watch for later article which will show how to change this set into a one tube receiver.

CRYSTAL DETECTOR OPERATION A MYSTERY

Still Remains One of Best Means of Rectification

By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer.

It is truly wonderful that a little chunk of mineral can possess the properties of converting radio waves into music and speech. Until comparatively recently it was one of the chief means of detecting radio signals.

Its place has been crowded out by the vacuum tube detector to a great extent but it still remains as one of the best detectors for quality of reproduction. For receiving local concerts within a radius of fifteen to thirty miles it can not be surpassed.

The true action of a crystal is somewhat of a mystery. Plausible explanations can be given as to what it does but we are still in the dark as to just how it is accomplished. Certain minerals have the property of allowing current to flow in one direction and not in the reverse. This property is called rectification and a crystal detector is often called a rectifier.

Why do we need a rectifier of any kind in a radio circuit? Why not connect the headphones up in series with the aerial and ground? To see the reason for this you must start at the beginning and consider the property of the wave as it is sent out from the transmitting station.

Radio waves are of a very high frequency, that is, they flow in one direction and reverse and flow in the other direction, alternating current, a great many times each second. This reversal of current is measured in millions of times every second on low wavelengths.

On the higher wavelengths the frequency becomes lower but it always remains considerably higher than other frequencies we are accustomed to deal with, such as tone frequencies of sound and frequencies of alternating current used in commercial work.

If the headphones are connected across the aerial and ground and you tune the antenna to a broadcasting station no sound will be heard in the receivers, altho the waves are of sufficient strength to move the diaphragm of the phones.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

TOURISTS HELD UP BY QUARANTINE NOW CAN PASS

YUMA, Ariz., April 21.—The first automobile load of the more than 800 tourists, enroute to far eastern points, held up at the state line here because of the hoof and mouth disease blockade laid down, closing roads leading into Arizona was to resume over the Colorado river into this state today after there fumigation, according to an announcement made by Dr. Edward L. Stam, state quarantine officer here.

The tourists are camped 14 miles out on the desert from here and immediately started into Yuma when it was learned that Gov. Hunt of Arizona had issued a provisional order allowing the autoists to cross the state line, providing they underwent the fumigation process.

REAPPRAISAL OF FARM LANDS ARE URGED BY FED'N

COLUMBUS, O., April 21.—Decreases in values of farm lands in the last few years with little or no revision of appraisal values for taxation have put an unfair burden on farm lands in many sections of Ohio, according to a statement made public by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation tonight.

An investigation in Wood-co showed the ratio of sales to appraisal values to be about 72 per cent the statement said. Land in all towns and cities in the county, the statement declares, have appraisement ratio of only 41 per cent.

WEDDING DINNER IS INTERRUPTED WHEN POLICE TAKE BRIDE

DAYTON, O., April 21.—Harry Tindall of Dayton and Mildred Moore, 17, a ward of the juvenile court at Muncie, Ind., met a few days ago in Richmond, Ind., and decided to take each other for better or for worse and hopped down to Newport, Ky., where they were married last Friday.

Sunday the police entered the case and spoiled a perfectly good Easter dinner in honor of the marriage. Muncie authorities asked that the girl be detained, married or single, and that her husband be held on a delinquency charge. The detectives agreed to wait until after the Easter dinner but by the time the matter was explained the bride had lost her appetite so both were taken to police headquarters and held for Muncie authorities. Tindall says he will not return to Muncie without extradition.

As the groom only had a marriage license and as Mildred only had a wrist watch, it looked like slim pickings for bond pending the outcome of the romance.

FLUELESS STOVES TAKE TOLL OF 50 LIVES IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, April 21.—Fifty of the 61 deaths resulting from carbon monoxide poisoning in Ohio during the past winter were due to the use of gas-fired heating appliances without vents, or flues, the records of the Ohio Public Health Council show, it was stated today.

The heavy toll of deaths from this cause led to the opening of an educational campaign in the use of such apparatus, which officials of the council said, should be flued to outside air in every case. The removal of gas-heating apparatus from bathrooms and other of the smaller rooms in the houses is recommended. Instructions are to be given school children concerning the use of gas fixtures.

Your Spring "House-cleaning"

The body needs a "spring house-cleaning" after the heavy foods of Winter. Give Nature a chance. There are a lot of toxins from undigested food that must be thrown off by the eliminating organs. Help Nature by eating Shredded Wheat and milk with green vegetables and fruits. It means mental buoyancy and physical alertness. Shredded Wheat is all food, easily digested, with just enough bran to insure natural bowel movement.

LOCALS WIN OPENER FROM NEWARK PURE OILS SCORE 3-2

REGULARS RIDE AT TOP WITH ZANESVILLE AND GUERNSEY-CO WINNERS

Victory in Tightly Played Game Credited to Rasnick's Pitching—Evans Retains Old Form—Coshocton to Meet Cambridge on Sunday, April 27.

The Coshocton Regulars nosed out the Newark Pure Oils 3 to 2 in the opening game of the season at Lake Park Sunday afternoon and were today at the top of the Eastern Ohio League standing, along with Zanesville and Cambridge, which also won their openers yesterday afternoon.

Bill Rasnick is credited with winning the opening game. Newark scored only in the fourth and six innings. Rasnick whiffed 12 batters.

"Peg" Evans starred at bat, at the keystone sack and in running bases. Evans batted 1000, securing three hits and a free pass to first out of four trials to the plate. He stole three bases and played a remarkable game at his new position, second base.

Winter weather limited the attendance considerably. There were 600 at the opening game.

An hour before the game started, the Coshocton baseball players in their new uniforms, headed by the American Legion band, paraded from Hickory-st west on Main-st to Second where they disbanded.

The Newark club was to have participated in the parade but owing to a wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad in Licking-co, they did not arrive here in time. The players then came by bus.

Umpire Ilger, of Mt. Vernon started the game at 3 p. m.

The game proceeded to the last of the third inning before first blood was drawn. Frank Gygli scored the first run of the game. Gygli was safe at first on English's error of his grounder and went to second when English heaved the ball high over the firstbaseman's head. Hildebrandt walked. Rasnick got a clean single to center. Schweitzer threw out Hildebrandt at second and Gygli scored.

The Pure Oils tied the score in their half of the fourth. Coshocton broke the knot in their half of the fifth. Evans singled to center. Schweitzer misjudging his fly ball. "Peg" stole second. Storch was called out on the last strike. Greber was out, Jones to Kelly. English erred Witt's roller, and Evans scored on the play. Gygli was out, D. Jones tossed to Kelly. Newark evened things up in the sixth. Coshocton regained the lead in her half of the seventh and the game ended the same way, 3 to 2. Dalrympl made the final score. He led off with a sharp single to left. He stole second the ball hitting him on the ankle in the throw to put him out stealing and he went on to third. He scored on Evans' line drive to right and was given $1 by Bill Wills, local fan when he came in to the bench.

Yesterday's game was one of the best around the loop. Coshocton and Newark played in mid-season form.

Jones pitched a splendid game for the Oils. He was touched for six singles. McAfee's hit was the longest of the game. It went for three bases.

Dalrymple looked good at bat and at third sack yesterday. He had but one chance and he disposed of the grounder without an error. Each Coshocton player got a good rap at the ball yesterday but the singles were made by Atchinson, Dalrymple, Evans 3, and Rasnick. McAfee, Dennison and Schweitzer made hits for Newark.

Next Sunday Coshocton will journey to Cambridge where they will face big Jim Vaughn. Vaughn won his game over Mt. Vernon yesterday. Many from here are planning to see the game.

BAD PITCHING TO BLAME FOR SLUMP OF CHAMPION YANKEES

(By DAVIS J. WALSH)

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 21—One of several surprises featuring the opening week of the Major League pennant races was furnished by none other than our esteemed New York Yankees, cast for the role of champions, but playing the part of chumps, at the moment. Not since the nonchamp days prior to and including 1920 have the Yankees given such an exhibition as they did during the first ten days of the American League race and when the Yankees are bad we defy any ball club to be worse.

Their present record is one victory in five starts. The lone cred[illegible] bordered on illegitimacy, at that, since five errors by Wambsganss letting in the winning run in the ninth inning of the opening game at Boston. Since then the world's champions have lost four in a row to the Red Sox and Senators, generally picked as logical [illegible].

Bad pitching by what is considered the greatest staff in the Major Leagues is one answer. The Senators and Red Sox have knocked the Yankee pitchers off for 37 runs, no less, in the last four games. Every member of the so called five-star staff has suffered without discrimination. Colossal infield blunders and failure to hit opportunely have done the best.

One man's honey being another's glucose, the Senators and Red Sox are well up in the race at present, naturally enough. They constitute an early season surprise as do the Chicago White Sox, who got away running against the Browns and now top the league in collaboration with the Tigers, with four victories and one defeat. The present position of the Indians and Browns is unnatural, neither having been able to muster consistent pitching. The Indians have yet to strike their winning stride and several of the young pitchers have disappointed Speaker.

John McGraw cannot complain on his score with any degree of consistency and a sore mouth. Three of his four winning efforts have been turned in by young men. Wayland Dean gave him $50,000 worth of pitching on his premiere in the majors. Virgil Barnes beat the Braves on Saturday and yesterday Huntzinger gave a natty performance against the same club. So far, McGraw hasn't found it necessary to call on his veterans, with the exception of Ryan in the opening game and Nehf for relief purposes. The rest of the National League procession is running more or less as it should barring the fact that the Dodgers do not belong in the first division.

Young Dalrymple, Coshocton's latest find in third basemen, is there with the goods. The young Akron lad, only 19, looks like a wonder. He received $1 for making the winning run.

"Peg" Evans played in mid-season form yesterday. He had a perfect day at bat, making three hits and securing a free pass to first on four trials to the plate. He stole three bases.

President H. H. Scott was in the grandstand yesterday but did not give his expected talk. He spent the afternoon watching the game.

The American Legion band entertained the fans with several selections. F. A. Norman was director.

Rasnick pitched a better game yesterday than any other hurler in the circuit according to the results of other league games.

Evans looks flashy at his new position, the keystone sack. He gobbled up the ground scrappers without a fizzle.

Vance Greber is back in his old position at right garden. Vance hit the ball hard yesterday.

Hughes' Persistence Puts Solution of Reparations Controversy on Economic Basis

WASHINGTON, April 21 — The triumph of an idea, obscured for a time and even seemingly defeated, but a triumph in the end—thus does the diplomatic world size up the remarkable formula for the solution of the six year old reparation controversy drafted by the Dawes-Young commission and now accepted by Germany as well as the allied powers.

Secretary of state Charles Evans Hughes sponsored the idea, fought long and voluble diplomatic battles with Premier Poincare and finally won out by the simple process of awarding to the French premier the opportunity to make the American idea his own. The inside history of the moves which have led to the happy solution now in prospect which is filling the world again with optimism can be revealed now as an enlightening chapter in the foreign policy of the United States.

The story starts with the effort of President Wilson to get senate consent to the appointment of an American member on the reparations commission. He failed. President Harding expressed himself as willing to have such representation authorized but the temper of the "irreconcilables" prevented action. An unofficial American member sat in the reparations meetings, first R. W. Boyden and then Colonel Logan. Neither were permitted to vote as America had not joined the commission officially. But the commission was pro French. The Belgians and Italians voted with the French while the British stood more or less alone most of the time. The deadlock prevented any solution.

Great Britain sought American aid in vain. Finally through diplomatic influence, the reparations commission was prevailed upon to invite bankers and financiers to accept as an advisory committee in finding a practicable solution. J. P. Morgan was invited to sit on such a committee. But the sessions of the advisory body came to naught largely because the French government insisted upon believing that the plan would resolve itself into a means of cutting down Germany's payments. Interference with the scope of the committee's work by the injection of a controversy over jurisdiction marked the end of the meetings.

Diplomacy again took up the tangle but without success. Then came the speech of Secretary Hughes at New Haven in which he argued that what was needed was not a political but an economic state of mind. He proposed that the matter be left to a commission of experts disconnected from political or governmental influence. They were to determine scientifically what Germany could pay and find a formula whereby Germany would be able to pay reparation debts. The suggestion fell on deaf ears in France. Then former Prime Minister David Lloyd-George came to America and pointed to the Hughes suggestion as practicable and urged its acceptance or at any rate that the British government take it up. President Coolidge let it be known that the Hughes plan announced under the Harding administration would be the policy of his administration. Mr. Lloyd-George seized upon it as a subject for further discussion. The Baldwin government fearing that Mr. Lloyd-George would make it an issue on his return promptly tendered an invitation to the United States and other powers to participate in the selection of a commission of experts as suggested by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven speech. America promptly accepted our Premier Poincare was skeptical of the London proposal as he was of nearly everything of British origin. Try as Secretary Hughes did through numerous conversations with Ambassador Jusserand to persuade the French premier that the plan would not have to be accepted if it was unsatisfactory the French government in effect rejected the invitation by imposing restrictions on the scope of the committee which the Washington government deemed destructive and hence the British invitation failed of results.

During the correspondence with the American government the French premier had shown such an interest in the main outline of the Hughes plan that he was truly disappointed when the negotiations collapsed. Feeling the necessity for an expert inquiry, M. Poincare decided to issue the invitation himself and he sponsored a plan quickly approved by the reparations commission whereby that body formally invited the experts to advise it. The experts were not necessarily to be connected with governments. In the case of the Americans invited—Charles G. Dawes, Owen D. Young and Henry M. Robinson—they were selected with the knowledge of the American government but without its specific authority. Indeed, the American members prevailed upon the other experts to cut loose from their governments so to speak and look at the problem as a business matter without regard to politics—exactly the Hughes formula.

Such an attitude has brought out such a plan now regarded as a masterpiece of adroit phraseology and diplomatic handling of an admittedly complex situation. Neither France nor Germany was offended by the recommendations. The national honor and obligations of both sides was recognized. Fiscal reconstruction for Germany was assured provided France withdrew her economic stranglehold on the Ruhr. Nothing was said about continued military occupation of the Ruhr by the French which probably will be perfunctory but which nevertheless will satisfy French pride without interfering with Germany's productiveness.

Just how much the gradual fall of the franc had to do with the tractable spirit of the French government in the recent parleys can only be conjectured but in the midst of the crisis over the franc, American bankers came forth with a big loan which stabilized the French situation. These bankers would not have made such a loan without knowing what the French would do about the acceptance of the Dawes-Young report. The French government was in constant touch with the work of the Dawes-Young commission. When the Morgan loan was made the financial world assumed the French would accept the experts report. And that has happened. The reparation problem has from the start been an economic question but it could not be solved if viewed as a political affair in either Germany or France. Mr. Hughes insisted that it was a matter of economics. His view has triumphed. All of which shows that in diplomacy persistence wins in the end.

THE TONIC TO TAKE IN THE SPRING

Father John's Medicine

Many so-called tonics are merely stimulants. They fail to reach or remedy the real cause which makes you run down or out of sorts.

The safe tonic is a food medicine and the greatest body builder is Father John's Medicine whose pure food elements are easily taken up by a weakened and rundown system. This old prescription contains the greatest of food medicines which doctors have prescribed for years for their patients. It is guaranteed free from drugs, alcohol or any other kind of stimulants. It builds up the body, enriches the blood. It is a builder and not a bracer. 70 years in use.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

IN MISERY SIX YEARS

Motorman, of Allentown, Pa., Finally Found Relief From His Stomach Trouble

William B. Parry

"I suffered for six years with stomach trouble," says William B. Parry, widely known Allentown motorman, who lives at 1321 Chew St., Allentown, Pa. "I went to many doctors and tried many medicines, but couldn't get the relief I wanted.

"Like many railway men, I had to snatch my lunches at irregular times. I developed gas pains in my stomach that were constant misery. Sometimes the gas got up around my heart and I thought I had heart trouble and would have to give up working. Doctors said it was indigestion caused by sluggish liver. I couldn't eat. Food hurt me. At night I would roll and toss in my bed.

"One day I went in where they were demonstrating Paw Paw and it sounded so sensible to me I thought I would try for relief once more. I never would have believed what just one bottle of Paw Paw Tonic would do, after what I suffered! As I took the tonic, the gas began to leave me. I can now eat fine and my food doesn't hurt me. I sleep soundly all night. When I awake, I feel rested. In fact, I feel better than I have for six years!"

Do YOU have similar trouble? Is your stomach out of sorts; do you feel tired out and run down; do you sleep poorly; do you have bad appetite, with no enjoyment of your meals? Then, do not hesitate one moment to take Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic. Buy a bottle at your druggist's and get relief. It costs only $1. "There's a Munyon Pill for Every Ill." Munyon's, Scranton, Pa.

Town Seizes Water Supply. Plan World's Biggest Bridge.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21. — Thirst knows no law.

This applies to water as a thirst quencher as well as liquor. But sometimes the law is on the side of the thirst.

This developed when thirsty citizens of Darwin, Inyo County, California, seized and commenced cooperative operation of the water system which provides the town with its drinking water and fluid for Saturday night baths. But they deny being "scofflaws."

Darwin has reason to be thirsty. It breathes the arid winds that blow from Death Valley. It is situated in the desert region known as Cosmo Valley, lying between the Cosmo range and the Argus range, an extremely arid district, and its existence is entirely due to the proximity of the silver mines.

For the last forty years the people of Darwin have depended upon the Pat Redy estate and its successor, the Darwin Silver Company, for water for domestic purposes. The spring from which the water is obtained is located in the Cosmo Mountains, nine miles west of the town, and is the only available water supply in the entire district that is fit for human consumption. The mining company permitted the pipe lines to fall into a state of disrepair, as a result of which the town's water supply was threatened.

Darwin's leading law official, Justice of the Peace Cash C. Clark, complained to the Railroad Commission, but that body was unable to afford relief. The Darwin Silver Company, a foreign corporation, contended that it is not a public utility, as no compensation has ever been collected for furnishing water. Because of the critical situation that faced them, due to having their water supply cut off, a mass meeting was called by the citizens of the town, and resolutions were passed appropriating the water system. A board of three was appointed to collect revenues and otherwise manage the system, and is to remain in office for an indeterminate period.

There will be no profiteering under the new regime. The rates that will be charged are: Hotels, $10 per month; restaurants, $7 per month; business houses, $6 per month; families, $3 per month; single persons, $1.50 per month; for animals, 10c. per day; mining use, 5c. per gallon.

The citizens, in appropriating this water system, acted upon the theory that abandoned public utility property may be appropriated for public use, and they have the backing of a ruling by the California Supreme Court.

If plans which have been prepared by Engineers M. M. O'Shaughnessy and J. B. Strauss meet with the approval of the War Department, the largest bridge in the world will be erected across Golden Gate, connecting San Francisco with Northern California.

The plans now being considered by the War Department call for a structure 4,010 feet long, from abutment to abutment, of combined cantilever and suspension type, to cost $20,000,000. It will have a fifty-two-foot roadway and ten feet of sidewalk space on either side. The bridge floor would have a clearing of 200 feet above the water, permitting the most majestic of vessels to pass beneath. The several counties north and south of the Golden Gate are expected to join in a bridge district to finance the great undertaking.

DAVID MEETS AN INTERESTING LITTLE CREATURE.

DAVID poked his nose between the bars of the fence and gazed at the funny bundle of sharp spines at the foot of the tree.

"Well, of all things," he mused, "if that doesn't look like a porcupine——"

"Be careful, be careful," laughed a merry voice, and David turned to see a wee little elfin face smiling at him.

"Oh, Squeedee"—he shook the elfin's hand—"I'm glad you came along just then. If that isn't a porcupine what is it then?"

"Why, that's Mr. Hedgehog," replied the elfin.

"Did you speak to me?" laughed the strange animal, uncurling itself and straightening out. "What made you think I am a porcupine? My spines, I guess." Then, without waiting for David to reply, he added: "So many youngsters say that same thing when they see me."

"I guess you couldn't do without your spines, could you, Mr. Hedgehog?" laughed Squeedee. "You should see him get away from his enemies. Some swift work, I can tell you."

"He's some runner," said David. "Then, too, I suppose you let those spurs fly and stick them into people, don't you, Mr. Hedgehog?"

"Gracious, no!" grunted Mr. Hedgehog. "I couldn't afford to lose them. As to running, I'm too slow. I just curl up in a knot and stick these spines out and most of my enemies scoot the other way. One day Reddy Fox spied me. I just happened to be at the top of a hill, so I curled myself up in a ball and rolled down to the foot of that hill, lickety-split, and left old Reddy Fox on the hilltop, staring at me wildly.

"Did he follow me? Well, I should say not! He turned around and ran as though he thought someone was after him, and he has never bothered me since that day. If he had any sense at all, he would have dumped me into the pond at the foot of the hill, then I would have had to unroll. But he didn't know that, so here I am."

"Well, of All Things!"

"Do you like your home here?" asked David.

"Yes, indeed," replied Mr. Hedgehog. "I never had such a lovely time. I get plenty to eat. Why, in my native haunts I almost always keep under cover during the daytime, just coming out evenings. But here I can do just as I please. They give me plenty of bugs to eat. You know hedgehogs live on bugs and insects. And I like them to eat better than anything else."

"But in the Winter time?" questioned David. "What do they feed you then?"

"Why, don't you know that we hedgehogs are like bats and snakes? We never eat in Winter. We just curl up in some secluded nook and go to sleep. The food problem never bothers me in the Winter time. I spend the Winter sleeping.

"After the frosts are over I awaken and by that time there are plenty of bugs. Oh, yes, I love earthworms, too."

Mr. Hedgehog yawned and curled up again just as they had found him, and nothing that Squeedee or David could say would make him unroll.

Why Madge Told Lillian About Her Tiff With Dicky.

THE voices of Lillian and Mrs. Marks died away down the hall, then sounded again close to my ears, and I realized that they had come into the bedroom of the Marks apartment, separated from my kitchen only by the thinnest of walls.

"[illegible] them on the bed," [illegible] said, "and thank you, [illegible] down with you. And I'll [illegible] everythin' you said. But I'm s[illegible]."

"I'll see you again soon," Lillian assured her, and [illegible] a few more seconds I heard the Marks door close upon another excited asseveration that Lillian was "so square and fine as Miss' Graham, and that's sayin' somethin'!"

I opened the kitchen door cautiously as Lillian came past it, and noiselessly followed her to the living-room.

"I am simply bursting with curiosity," I whispered when I had closed the door. "Of course I know you helped her carry the furs back, and from her words and inflections I can see you have her eating out of your hand, but what did you find out? Or don't you want to tell me?"

Lillian Is Reassuring.

I added the query because I had caught a familiar expression in Lillian's eyes, one which means that she wishes to work out a problem on her own. I had not realized that Mrs. Marks and her peculiar surroundings presented anything more to Lillian than a chance to aid me in dealing with Dicky's protege. But in Lillian's suddenly lined forehead I saw that something beyond any personal problem was interesting her, and I regretted my quizzing.

"Frankly, I—don't—just now," Lillian replied slowly. "I've stumbled upon—something—surprising—to me, and I want not only time but the sense of being absolutely unhampered by personal relations while working the thing out. I will tell you this, however—" she flashed a brilliant smile at me—"you were partly right about those fur garments. They are not half as guilty as they look."

Timely Interruption.

"I am glad of that," I returned heartily, hoping that Lillian would not see my involuntary change that Mrs. Marks evidently had confided far more to her than she had to me.

"I knew you would be," Lillian answered, and followed her assertion with a question:

"When is Dicky going to Michigan with his mother?"

"Just as soon as Mother Graham can get ready, probably in two or three days."

"And when is Dicky going out to the farm?"

"I don't know," I replied. I had not confided to Lillian the details of Dicky's abrupt departure.

She threw a shrewd glance at me.

"How would you like to sublet your apartment to me while Dicky and his mother are gone and you are at the farm?" she queried with a smile at the word "sublet." She knew that if she had used the word seriously I should have been deeply offended.

I grinned involuntarily.

"It was what Dicky suggested when he went away this evening," I said demurely. "It will be an—especial—delight—to me to tell him that I have followed his advice."

She gave me an answering grin.

"You sure are learning how to gentle that broncho," she said. "When do you expect him back?"

"I don't know," I returned truthfully. "He shook the dust of the establishment from his feet when he left, and announced that he would tell the janitor to get his suitcases and keep them for him. But—he went straight out of the door and didn't stop for the janitor."

"Your vantage point the front window," Lillian commented with an amused, but kindly, grin. "Wise lady! You can learn a lot from that station. Then you think he'll be back tonight?"

"No-o," I answered, "but I imagine he will telephone."

As if punctuating my answer, the telephone rang.

THE HOME KITCHEN

Greens That Tempt the Fickle Appetite These Spring Days

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

MOTHER Nature, prodigal in all her offerings, provides many Spring greens by way of tonics for that "tired feeling." These delicious greens may be found by those who search and may be had for the gathering or digging. Unfortunately, we cannot all dig. Many of us have to accept our greens through the medium of shops and other avenues. But for those interested, a harvest in nearly all localities awaits the digger.

A bit of wild onion or garlic chopped in the salad will revive the jaded Spring appetite. Dandelion is perhaps the most generally liked Spring green and is at its prime as soon as the young leaves are well above the ground. The leaves are capable of so many uses that it is not surprising to see how eagerly they are sought. Washed and cut in with the salad, stewed and creamed, cooked and panned as we do spinach, or chopped and added to an omelette are a few of the ways it is delicious.

Watercress rides on the crest of numberless brooks and streams, even in the overflow from springs, and is a delightful Spring salad material. If unavailable in some sections, wintercress, which is a land cress with rosettes of glossy leaves, may take its place. Upland cress is a cousin of the others that resembles chives, which may be cultivated in the garden later in the season with the other salad greens.

Horseradish offers a wonderful treat if while fresh and tender, it is stewed and creamed or grated and made into a sauce, or grated and added to early beets, boiled and chopped and well seasoned. Beet greens and wee beets are excellent for garden greens, but they come after the Summer garden is planted and gives its first fruits.

WHO does not weary of the city's prison walls and ache, at times, to run far away—out where the grass is green, the treees can grow and touch the clouds and the sky is an endless blue—out where brooks run merrily, the birds carol joyously and butterflies flit hither and yon? What more fitting setting could there be for one whose heart is young and free and whose face is as fair as the flowers of the fields?—A joyous welcome awaits her.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Thought-Reading Dangers

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

DOCTOR GARDNER MURPHY of Columbia University is making experiments to see whether radio waves can transmit thought.

Please, please, Doctor Murphy, be careful! Oh, do be very careful, indeed!

Don't you remember the story of Pandora and how she opened the box and let all the little Troubles that had been shut up there so long out and how cross everybody was every time they looked at her and thought what she had done?

Do you want your name to be Pandora forever and forever, Dr. Murphy?

What have you got against the human race that you want to send thought waves by radio?

Dear me, if you can do that you'll find a way of reading thoughts and then we'll all learn how to do it, and what a terrible world it is.

Talk about glass houses—why we'll all have to stop thinking for good and all.

Oh, no, there's nothing so very secret in our thoughts. It isn't that, but how long do you think you'd live with your dear good husband, my dear, good madam, if you know just exactly what he thought every minute of the day?

Just Suppose——

"Mary certainly begins to look old. See all the fine little wrinkles around her eyes, and whatever is the matter with her chin, it didn't used to look like that? Well, I suppose I'm not as young as I was myself, either, when it comes to that."

But before he got to himself in his thought, what would you be saying, pray tell?

"Why, the idea! Of course I'm not as young as I used to be, nobody is. And if I hadn't been living with you so long I might feel a good deal younger than I do. I could just feel the wrinkles coming that time you worried me so when you neglected your business for golf and everybody was talking about you."

"Golf, well if that's the worst you can say——"

They're off, and who knows where the quarrel will end?

And what if John could read your mind when he's telling his favorite story at the dinner party?

"Oh, dear, there he is starting that old tale again. I do wish he'd forget it, everybody's heard it. See how bored they look. And where on earth did John ever get the idea that he can tell a dialect story, anyhow? I must speak to him about it tonight. I really must, when we get home."

Poor John! and it makes him so happy to think that you're proud of him and his dialect stories. You used to be, you know, you really did. But when you've listened to them for ten years—of course—

"You're too intelligent a man not to see the benefit of this organization. I wouldn't bother to try to convince an ordinary person, but I know so well what it will mean to you when you once understand." How nice it all sounds, and how easy it is to sign on the dotted line.

But if you could look into the salesman's mind and see him thinking:

"This is an easy one, no more sense than a toy Pekingese. I wish she'd hurry up and sign, poor fool, I need that commission and I need it now."

Keep It to Yourself

How many of us would ever buy anything or sell anything if we could read each other's mind?

If thoughts were permanent things it might be all right.

But who wants to keep track of the thousand and one ideas that flash through the average mind a thousand times a minute.

Oh, no, dear Dr. Murphy, no, no, please.

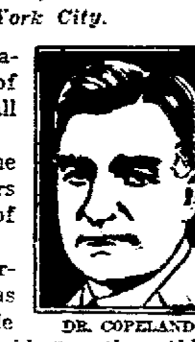

In the name of Peace, in the name of Friendship, in the name of Love, if you find out that secret keep it to yourself.

And we'll raise a lovely monument to you when you die.

YOUR HEALTH

Be Sure You're "Fit" to Do the Work You Like

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

UNFORTUNATELY there are many occupations that have bad effects on the health of workers. This group of diseases we call "occupational diseases."

Occupational diseases may be classified. Some are due to the environment of the worker. Others are due to the materials used in preparation of certain articles.

Men who work in tunnels or other underground structures or in digging deep excavations are affected by the atmosphere they breathe while at work. The compressed-air pumps, the nitrous oxide gas, the sudden changes in temperature, all have their ill effects.

The symptoms the affected worker usually complains of are pains in the back and legs, dizziness, loss of consciousness and a constant choking feeling. In most cases these symptoms pass off after a few hours in normal surroundings.

It has been wisely stated that only those who are thin and who do not use alcoholic stimulants should work in underground places. Fat people are not able to expel the nitrogen from their lungs as readily as thin ones.

Divers can work but a short time at a great depth. They suffer from lack of pure air. The garments they wear are kept in place by means of tight bands. These affect the circulation, with resulting pains in the limbs.

In recent years it has been found that people making balloon and airplane ascensions are affected by the intensity of the rarefied air through which they pass. This affects the pulse and respiration and often is accompanied by nosebleed, nausea and chills. It is indeed wonderful the advance science has made and the few ill effects resulting from aviation.

Glassblowers, furnace stokers, bakers and canners are often affected by the intense heat in which they work.

Extreme cold to which storage packers are subjected has its bad effects also.

Brass workers, especially those who do the grinding and polishing, complain of tiredness, headache, vomiting and pains in the extremities. These symptoms usually disappear after a few hours' rest and a hot drink.

Every worker in any hazardous occupation should take careful inventory of his general health. He should make sure that there is no organic defect, and correct any simple ailment the doctor may find.

When you leave your work, change to fresh clothes, take a short, brisk walk for a few minutes. Do not eat if you are upset or do not feel well. Half an hour's rest, a cup of soup and thorough washing of the hands and face will refresh you and drive away the average result of the day's work.

Do not continue any kind of work that seems to affect your health. Many a man has shortened the span of life because he persisted in doing work he was physically unfit to do.

Answers to Health Questions

C. D. M. Q.—I have many small lumps on my face. They are not blackheads, but come and go so that my face is never entirely free of them. What causes this condition and how can I cure it?

A.—I would advise you to consult a skin specialist since your symptoms are a little too vague for a diagnosis without an examination.

J. J. H. D. Q.—What would you advise me to apply to my hair to make it stay in place? Is —— or vaseline injurious to the hair?

A.—I would advise using vaseline to keep the hair flat and in place.

A SUBSCRIBER. Q.—Would you advise me whether a truss will cure a recent slight repture?

A.—A truss will afford temporary relief only. Ordinarily the condition must be operated upon to effect a cure.

A CONSTANT READER. Q.—Which is the best cereal to eat for breakfast, —— or ——?

2.—What is the cause of headache?

A.—Both of these breakfast foods are good.

2.—Headaches come from many different causes. Constipation, auto-intoxication high blood-pressure, eyestrain and sometimes a catarrhal condition will cause this trouble. Find the cause and the proper treatment will suggest itself.

* * *

ANXIOUS. Q.—Please tell me whether a dislocated knee joint ever becomes normal.

A.—If properly treated I see no reason why the joint should not become normal.

A SUBSCRIBER. Q.—Will an egg shampoo harm the hair?

2.—Will olive oil applied to the face at night grow hair on the face?

A.—Egg shampoo will not harm the hair.

2.—Olive oil applied to the face may cause hair to grow there.

Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

This Canary Linen Frock Features the Tucked Panel Treatment.

CANARY yellow is one of the smartest colors for the new season. It appeared in heavier fabrics for very early Spring, and now it comes in all the delightful sheer fabrics for warm weather.

The model above is a cool little affair of canary yellow handkerchief linen. It has short sleeves, a square neck and a front panel which features deep tucks.

The hat is of white Bangkok straw with a sheer flange of yellow hair straw standing up about the ends.

How to Make Your Clothes Accent Your Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

SOMEONE has very wisely said that fashion is general and style is individual.

If you are very wise you'll think this over, and you'll keep it in the back of your head the next time you're shopping, or ordering a frock from your dressmaker, or making one for yourself.

Charm, that word that defies definition, has most to do with the person herself, and somewhat to do with the raiment in which she clothes herself.

If you know your own type perfectly you'll find it easy and delightful to plan clothes that you are sure will suit you to a T. They become a part of you. They accent your type of charm, because they are essentially what you have chosen for yourself.

If the clothes you wear can answer the foregoing description, they are essentially of the style that makes you an individual to be reckoned with—and not simply a woman who follows the fashion, be it ever so unbecoming to her.

Choose good clothes, but never let them be of the kind that eclipse you yourself. The secret, to my mind, of the wonderful French creations lies in the fact that you notice a lovely woman when she wears them, rather than noticing the gown and the woman as a secondary consideration.

You think how charming a creature she is, and later you may have time to consider her gown and realize that it is a wonderful thing. Because it is the right type it accents the subtle qualities of her charm which are most alluring.

And the French things are so simple and so plain that you really don't think much about them at first. You don't realize what makes the gown so bewitchingly becoming. Then you realize it's the beauty of the workmanship. They are put together so that practically not a stitch or a seam shows.

You can make this subtle art of gowning yourself your own. Remember that you are of first importance and your clothes of secondary importance. Keep this principle in your mind and you'll find that you've progressed a long way in distinguishing between style and fashion. Your effect will be individual instead of general.

And, having achieved this success in your choice of clothes, you can forget the clothes you wear and enjoy the perfect ease that does away with all embarrassment and allows you to be at your charming best. [illegible] self and think of the welfare of others. You can put them at their ease and make them enjoy being with you because you know exactly how to draw out the charm that is latent within them.

Such a woman is bound to be popular and well-liked and to be sought by others, and the knowledge that she is well-liked makes any woman happier and more lovely.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a married woman in my twenties. I have been married seven years. My husband is several years older than I and of course has different ideas about things. He is good to me in a way and in another he isn't. He provides well for me. I have plenty of money to spend and dress about as nicely as I care to, but this is where I feel that he is unjust to me. He never wants me to go out anywhere and if I go he gets angry with me and will not talk to me for several days at a time. Now perhaps you think I am a regular runabout, but I am not. I have three babies and I devote all my time to them and my house, but there are times when I would like to visit a friend or go to a movie and spend a little time away from home. Sometimes I just go anyway, but my trip isn't any pleasure as I am wondering all the time what he is going to say about it. He seems to be jealous of all my friends and I can't invite them to my home because he treats them so coolly.

He tells me he doesn't doubt me and that he loves me better than any one in the world. Now do you think he could be so unfair to me if he really did love me? Now if I ask him to visit a friend with me he always has some excuse. I would surely appreciate any advice you will give me.

DISCOURAGED.

DISCOURAGED: Surely, your husband cannot be so selfish as to want to deprive you of all pleasure. Perhaps it is because you do not include him when you want to go out. Why not have a nice comfy talk with him and explain that after you have been busy in the house and taking care of the children all day you would like to go to the movies or to call on some friends—and ask him to take you. He cannot refuse you, I am sure, if you show him that it would not be a pleasure unless he accompanies you. Just talk it all over with him and if you do it in a nice way, without losing your temper, I am sure he can be made to see it from your standpoint and will be only too glad to take you occasionally. Good luck to you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl twenty-one years of age. I have been keeping company with a man for over a year and a half. As he lives in another city, he cannot come to see me very often.

Once while calling on me, he danced with my sister and kissed her, unaware that I was in an adjoining room. Now this hurt very much, for it was the first time he ever kissed her. That night he asked me to marry him. What shall I do when he calls again? Shall I explain to him or keep silent?

MISS ENGAGED.

MISS ENGAGED: Better ignore the incident. Probably the young man was prompted by brotherly affection for your sister and the act was motivated by his happiness at the thought of your becoming his wife. Certainly he loves you or he would not have asked you to marry him.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in love with a certain young man, about five years my senior. He has proven his love by asking me to marry him. We are engaged but still he goes with other girls. What should I do? Should I still trust him?

STRAIGHT LOCKS.

STRAIGHT LOCKS: He certainly should not call on other young ladies when he is engaged to you. Tell him in a very nice way of it. I am sure he will not wish to go with them when he realizes that his doing so makes you unhappy.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, APRIL 22.

A perplexing day is to be read from the dominant and contradictory planetary configurations. There is need for caution and discretion in all lines of activity, and particular care should be taken to avoid hurts or accidents for one's self and family. There are elements of danger and discord in the domestic circle and the young especially should be protected from various hazardous situations. Business may be fairly successful but make changes cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of uncertainty in their affairs, though business may be fairly prosperous. The domestic circle should be safeguarded against all manner of ills—hurts, accidents and social missteps. Change, removals and travel should be postponed. A child born on this day may be fond of change and should be carefully trained early in life.

SPORTMAN'S CORNER

Responding to the request of the Coshocton-co Pomona Grange, at its meeting at Oak Grove, April 5, that the Coshocton-co Forest, Field and Stream Protective Association publicly state its attitude on keeping the quail on the song-bird list, the county protective association submits the following resolution, thru its secretary, W. W. Bostwick, Jr.

"The Coshocton-co Forest Field and Stream Protective Association hereby goes on record as being absolutely in favor of the quail remaining forever on the songbird list, and wishes to state that as an organization it will exert every effort possible in its power to keep 'Bob White' on the songbird list." This resolution was submitted to vote at the last regular meeting of the local association and carried with a unanimous vote.

Since the organization of the protective association, there has obviously been, say its officials, a misunderstanding on the part of some Coshocton-co citizens, both rural and urban, on the true function of the Coshocton-co Forest, Field and Stream Protective Association. James Preston and W. W. Bostwick, Jr., president and secretary respectively of the association, as well as other members, when interviewed, Saturday, enthusiastically discussed the aims of their organization.

There has always been, it seems, a group of individuals who have gone out into the country from the city, under the guise of sportsmen, hunting without the consent of landowners, killing game out of season and animals not on the game list, sometimes killing or injuring domestic animals, and otherwise violating the rights of private owners. Some landowners, say the local men, are said to think that this class of marauders are members of the protective association and are using the protective association to further their interests. On the other hand, these violators themselves are said to feel that their malpractices will be countenanced by the protective association. The officials of the local association, however, desire it to be made clear that none of this class are members of their organization, and that one of the main functions of the association is to protect landowners from such.

"Perhaps the two most important undertakings of the local protective association," said Mr. Bostwick, "are the work of reforestation of Coshocton-co's wastelands, and the drive to bring an end to stream pollution in Coshocton-co." In addition to these, the work of establishing public fish and game preserves, porpagating fish and game thruout the county, protecting game—in and out of season songbirds and property rights, and eradicating pests, are important.

The local men add that many of the members of the Coshocton-co Forest, Field and Stream Protective association are farmers living out in the rural districts, and that in order for the association to be of the greatest possible service to the county in general, many more landowners should become members and learn the real benefits that can come from the organization.

Mr. Preston and Mr. Bostwick stated, moreover, that it is a distinctively mistaken idea that there is a movement on foot among sportsmen's organizations over the state to try to put the quail back on the game bird list. Tho, they say, many individuals—not sportsmen but sports are ardously working to that end, organized effort is exactly to the contrary. Mr. Preston stated that, of the 15 members of the board of directors of the board of directors of the League of Ohio Sportsmen only two want the quail back on the game bird list. He added that there are doubtless not a half dozen members of the local protective association in Coshocton who would countenance any move to change the present status of the quail.

The officials of the local association moreover take this occasion to ask farmers and landowners thruout the county to report to them any cases of quail being killed. In the event of any such cases the association will provide measures of apprehending and prosecuting the violators, regardless of who they may be.

SLASHES THROAT

thru the lot at the rear, up DeHart-av. and again came out on Denman-av at Thirteenth-st. Deputy Stuart remarked several times to his wife as to the man's strange actions.

Deputy Stuart was the first to enter the room after Mortine had been found by Holder's small boy. He immediately recognized the man as the same he had seen Sunday morning. The deputy believes that Mortine was that morning looking for a way to destroy himself.

According to a story hold by the Holder boy, Mortine entered the basement of the home Saturday forenoon, the day before he committed the act, drove a spike in the wall, then tested it to see if it would hold. The spike failed to hold, however, and Mortine left the basement. It is believed he might have been planning to hang himself there.

Mrs. Peter Johnston, of near Plainfield and a relative of Mortine, said Monday that Mr. Mortine had been in poor health all winter, suffering from leakage of the heart.

He had never given any intimation of his intention to take his life, Mrs. Holder said.

Mrs. Holder told a reporter Monday that Mr. Mortine told her and her husband that he was 44 years of age. Mrs Johnston said that Joshua would have been 46 years of age on Tuesday, April 22.

Joshua J. Mortine was born in Linton tp. He lived his entire life in that township. He was a farmer. Mr. Mortine had worked on his father's farm, near Plainfield for years and was also employed as a workman on other farms during the past few years.

Mr. Mortine was an industrious and hard working farmer. He was a likable man, possessing a wide circle of friends in Linton-tp.

He was never married.

There are surviving his mother, Mrs. Ellen Mortine, on the home farm; and the following brothers and sisters, William, of near Plainfield; Frank, of Muskingum co., Mrs. Ella Hiser, John-st; George and Laura Mortine, of the late home.

His father, George Mortine preceded him to the grave six years ago in August.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed late Monday afternoon.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The stock market was generally heavy at the opening today. Fractional losses were registered in most groups but selling pressure was light and originated with the professional element.

Mr. New And Wages In The Postoffice

IF THE postoffice were a private business the wage scale would long since have reflected the higher cost of living. Since postal employes must not strike to improve their wages, the obligation of Congress, acting as a board of directors for all the people, to deal generously with them is all the greater. That obligation is in arrears and is recognized by the bills now pending.

Mr. New opposes these bills with the threat of increased postal rates. That is not the question. The question is one of fair wages for men who are important public servants. After the Government has played fair with the postal workers it will be time to decide on rates.

The substitute schedule offered by the Postmaster-General has the merit of recognizing the claim that workers in the largest offices deserve something extra to cover higher living costs, particularly rent. Mr. New suggests $100 as the differential. But how many carriers and clerks in cities are able to find decent living quarters at a rent only $8 a month greater than men in the small towns? A $200-a-year differential, as proposed, is not enough to put the two classes on an equality.

A Mischief-Breeding Ship Law

AMERICAN exporting and railroad interests are beginning to wake up to the fact that section 28 of the Jones merchant marine act of 1920 is booked to go into effect next month. This section provides for specially low railroad and export rates for goods which use American vessels in getting out of the country. Some 300 or more business men, said to represent practically every industry interested in the export trade, were in Washington Thursday from New York alone to protest against the enforcement of section 28.

The objections to be urged are various. But the chief objection is that enforcement will disorder our foreign-trade relations and provoke reprisals against our own flag ships.

Section 28 is like section 34 of the same law. Section 34 "directed" the President to denounce all treaties and conventions which restricted the right of the United States to impose discriminating duties on imports brot here in other than United States vessels. President Wilson refused to do it. President Harding at first hesitated and then balked. President Coolidge is equally disobedient. Their chief reasons have all been the same. Enforcement of section 34 would upset the ocean-carrying trade all around and the American merchant marine would be hurt thru foreign reprisals more than it would be helped. So of this section 28.

Both sections were adopted by Congress in the furor of a Republican presidential campaign of American isolation among the nations and denial of any material interest for the United States in the industrial or other affairs of the outside world. We are beginning to learn better. Our farmers in particular have been having some instruction on that score in the hard school of experience. Section 34 has been scrapped and should be repealed. Section 28 should go the same way.

Disarmament

THE declaration of the British prime minister, Mr. MacDonald, in favor of a conference to consider the question of "armaments," not only in the air, but "all other forms of armaments," has, it is said, met with a favorable reception in Washington, as was to have been expected.

One of the main purposes of the Washington conference was to end the race in armaments. But it is today going forward, as between certain countries, more fiercely than ever. Even this country is considering whether it may not be necessary for it to enter into the competition. It is now power in the air that is sought. It does not help greatly to dismantle battleships, or to suspend their construction, if nations are to build great airfleets, powerful enough to destroy any surface fleet in existence, and to wreck cities, and, indeed, whole countrysides.

In a word, the work of the Washington conference is uncompleted. What Mr. MacDonald said was "in the back of his head, and not very far back," is reported to be "in line with plans which Secretary of State Hughes has had in his mind since the adjournment of the disarmament conference three years ago." It is felt that "the nations must first do everything possible to make the experts' plan for solving the reparations problem a success." "If," it is reported, "international matters work out the way the authorities here hope they will, the United States would be glad to issue a call for a conference, if it should prove to be the wish of the other powers that call originate in Washington."

Nothing would do more to guarantee safety to the nations than action in the line proposed. Another important suggestion has been made, by the American Legion, and that is that there be some limitation to the uses to which airplanes may be put in time of war. We were all shocked during the great struggle at the war waged by the air forces on the civilian population, and the killing of women and children. But now it seems to be understood that if another war should come airplanes would be used for that despicable purpose. Such a conference as that proposed should meet with universal approval.

The man who thrills to his job is generally successful. This applies to almost every vocation including head-waiting. Charlie Journal, New York's famous headwaiter, is said to be worth a half million. He is never happy away from the roped entrance. In six years he has never been from his post at night. "Nothing I could do offers me so much pleasure as greeting my patrons," he told me. Journal is a Parisian but looks more like a keeper of a village store.

In the same fashion the most humble calling can be graced with fascinating dignity. There is a maid on one of the floors of the hotel where I live—a pretty, dark eyed girl who has an amazing sweetly sad expression. There is something queenly about her that everybody notices. Somehow one cannot help but feel tragedy has touched her and instead of discouraging has ennobled her.

New York has been quite stirred by an imported variety act—a talking seal. It has offered an astounding example of - wheres the dictionary—O, yes, mammal training. But what interested me most was how does one become inspired to train a seal. The trainer is a young Cockney. He told me he used to be an attendant in a London zoo. He took care of the seal pit among other duties. He began to experiment with one of his charges and found it was adaptable to his training. A visiting showman saw him one day making a seal perform some tricks. The result was an engagement. Simple, after all.

There was a period in my life when I was a professional trick bicycle rider and made a few appearances at summer parks and I. A. W. meets. My father heard of it and what might have been a brilliant career was blasted. There is almost a tinge of regret. I never see a trick rider in spangled tights that I do not think that had it not been for filial interference I might be doing the same thing. Not long ago after twenty years retirement I tried to ride a bicycle at the home of Arthur Somers Roche in Connecticut. I went down a hill, ran into a dog and skidded over an embankment and lost a patch out of the south end of what had a few moments before been a perfectly respectable pair of trousers. But what hurt me most was that I who had boasted so extravagantly of my bicycle exploits was hailed in my humiliation by my wife's rousing laugh.

WALT MASON

ALL IS LOST

If one who holds a public place becomes acquainted with disgrace, we hear a wail of woe: men cry, "Farewell to honest worth, there is no merit on this earth, no virtue here below!" Peter Peppermint, a county clerk, got in some underhanded work, and pinched a goodly wad; then all the pessimists arose, and sadly murmured, "Heaven knows, our government's a fraud. We thought Pete Peppermint a goat who would not cop a single cent, and now he is in jail; our faith is lying flat, supine; we might as well take in our sign, let anarchy prevail." But I with dignity unreared, and shot some language through my beard: "All is not lost," I cried; "the sheriff's record is most fair, the county judge is good and square, his bailiff is no snide. Most office holders straightly move, and all good people will approve our register of deeds; our coroner looms up sublime, he sits on dead men all the time, and for no rake-off pleads. There is no truer man on deck than James Adolphus Beeswax Beck, our justice of the peace; so I proceed all down the line, and find our public servants fine, so let your failing cease. Because one man lets go his hold, and falls for gawds like oil of gold, it's idle to despair; it's vain your bosom to expand; the government's good as wheat; and right side up with care."

Sixth St. Theatre

LEROY, TALMA, BOSCO

Columbus Dispatch comment on Leroy, Talma and Bosco, magicians, who will be the attraction at the 6th St. theatre Tuesday, April 22.

LYCEUM

The season's offerings at the Lyceum would not be complete without magicians, and the management has obtained for this week a trio of good illusionists who call themselves the "Great Triumvirate of Arabian Nights Entertainers." They are LeRoy, the Belgian magician, assisted by Talma and Bosco.

Their entertainment is interesting and swiftly-moving and with just enough of comedy to give the show a tag without detracting from the innumerable tricks and illusions.

The Belgian magician has originated many of the mystifying offerings, but probably the best of his illusions is the old Hindu rope trick about which volumes have been written but its nature never explained except to the chosen few.

In this trick, a rope os thrown into the air and hangs there apparently without any support. Soon a boy is seen climbing it, and then, at the magician's word, the boy and rope disappear, to reappear again when desired.

Another illusion of note proceeds from a bird cage which LeRoy carries about the theatre through the audience. He hands it about impartially, apparently empty and when it is returned to him the magician makes black birds appear and disappear.—Dispatch.

DON'T LET THAT COLD TURN INTO "FLU"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," croup or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

NEW YORK, April 21.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up early and came the expressman with a fine bear skin rug Dr. F. M. Rose sent me from Texas, the bravest I ever saw, and then off to see Rupert Hughes and he was engaged as ever.

To lunch where came Jay Kaufman and with him Gilbert Seldes, who used to edit The Dial, nor did I find him high browsed at all. And the talk mostly of vaudeville and jazz music and topics. Then home and at my reckoning and here put in further amazing week while.
